May 26, 2006

The Board of Regents and the State Education Department recently nominated Williamson Central School District as one (1) of New York State’s seventy-nine (79) “high performing/gap closing” districts. Statewide, there were four hundred thirty-two (432) districts that met eligibility criteria. Only nineteen (19) percent of these districts were so recognized, Williamson Central Schools being one of them.

The district met the State standards for English Language Arts and Math during the 2004-2005 school years. In addition, the district also made Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) in English Language Arts, Mathematics, Science and the graduation rate during both 2003-2004 and 2004-2005 school years. Later this school year, the State Education Department will be issuing a public announcement regarding our achievement.

Superintendent Maria Ehresman would like to thank the community, the entire staff and the Board of Education for their continuous support in making this a reality. This type of support has lead us forward in accomplishing an increase in student achievement while helping close the gap in student performance.
